

periods of high winds; any person who recklessly, carelessly or unsafely operates a boat on Reservoir water may be removed from the Reservoir property by a police officer or park ranger. After notice and hearing, the permit of any person so removed may be revoked by the city manager or a designee thereof. Each boat must carry one Coast Guard approved lifesaving device for each occupant and any additional safety equipment required by the State of Colorado; boats loading or unloading at the ramp must expeditiously move away from the ramp after such loading or unloading. Except when departing or returning to the boat dock or boat ramp, boats must remain at least 150 feet from any person fishing from the shore.

The City reserves the right to hold special functions at the Reservoir at any time and may close the Reservoir to permit holders during such special functions. No vehicle will exceed the speed of 10 miles per hour while at the Reservoir. Any person who hikes at the Reservoir will remain on designated and signed trails. The Arvada/Blunn Reservoir property will be open with opening and closing times varying as the season progresses, April 1 through October 31, to all permit holders, except when there is any ice on the lake and due to administrative closures.

Zebra Mussel/Boat Inspection Regulations for the Current Season

The City's boat inspection protocol at the Reservoir will continue to conform to State Regulations. These Regulations require a State Standard for all boat inspections called a Single System – Single Message. Arvada is proud to be one of the 113 State Inspection sites located throughout Colorado.

The major changes installed in 2012 will continue to be enforced. The general 14 day boat quarantine period has been lifted for most boaters. If your boat has a seal even from a different reservoir, the City of Arvada will honor it and no quarantine will be required. The exception could be for boats that have no attached seals or boats that have come from Zebra Mussel contaminated waters within the last 30 days. These boats may be admitted into the Reservoir upon passing a full boat inspection or may require the 14 day quarantine. The confirmed known body of water is Pueblo Reservoir. All boats with green seals will now be accepted without a quarantine period as long as the boat is clean, drained and dry.

Also being enforced is the clean, drain and dry exit inspection. This is a quick exit procedure. The inspection ensures that contact has been made with the boater before he/she leaves the Reservoir and verifies that the boat is clean and drained prior to leaving and that the live wells, anchor and other compartments are dry. Boaters will be required to clean and drain their own boats and must bring their own rags and sponges to do the job. After this inspection is complete, rangers will attach a new green seal on the boat and give a matching clean, drain and dry exit receipt to the boat owner.

Welcome to the Arvada Reservoir

The Arvada Reservoir serves as an important water source for the City of Arvada, supplying the City with 25% of its drinking water. For this reason, sports such as wind surfing, swimming, water skiing, tubing and scuba diving, which require body contact with the water, are not allowed. Because of the relatively small size of the Reservoir and for water quality reasons, gas powered boats are also prohibited. However, electric trolling motors are permitted.

Permits are required to use the facility. Annual permits may be purchased only at City Hall, 8101 Ralston Road. Daily permits may be purchased at the Reservoir. Boating and parking facilities have been provided at the south side of the site. There are no provisions for overnight camping or campfires at this time so neither can be allowed. The Reservoir has been stocked by the Colorado Division of Wildlife with rainbow trout, brown trout, large mouth bass, walleye and tiger muskie.

The site contains an abundance of wildlife, particularly in the western portion. To help preserve these areas, we do ask that hikers stay on the trails and that boaters not venture into the westernmost section of the Reservoir. Signs have been posted to assist you.

The rules and regulations that are listed in this brochure are designed to make sure that everyone will enjoy their stay at Arvada/Blunn Reservoir. Please obey the rules, be careful and enjoy your stay.
